

ALEXANDRIA. THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 27.

ALEXANDRIA. In all contemplated routes from the West to the Atlantic sea-board, through Virginia, there are two points which attract great attention -- Nortolk and Alexandria. We speak for ourselves. Alexandria is contiguous to the National capital-the seat of Government it has a spacious harbor in which the largest merchant vessels can receive cargoes - a fine depth of water at the wharveswarehouses, docks and wharves already builta noble river flowing, without an obstruction, to the bay, and every facility imaginable for commercial and shipping purposes. It is, besides, the terminus in Virginia of important railroads and the shortest and best route from the West ends here. Let capitalists look to Alexandria lupule to arehand and min are

It is, certainly, it must be admitted, very discreditable to the country, that, upon the conclusion of a most important State trial-no less than the impeachment of the Presidentinstantly an investigation has been ordered by both Houses of Congress, to ascertain who of those who tried the case-Senators-have been bought and sold! We don't know what they will say about such a thing in Europe-but we do know what those who have heretofore favored a Republican government, and claimed its superiority over other forms of government, will think. There has been a great "shaking of heads," and much doubt and misgiving, in the old countries, among the friends of republicanism for six years past, in consequence of the state of things on this side of the Atlantic. Sensible people, there, are not deceived by names. They look at the reality.

It is remarked in the New York Express, that, of the vast amount of frauds perpetrated | Capitol. by government agents, during the last six years, or more, but very few, if any, of the delinquents have been brought to justice, or been punished for their crimes. Indeed, corruption and peculation are so common as hardly to excite much attention. Government funds are considered "fair game," and the "grab system" scarcely brings discredit upon the grabber. If he lines his pocket, and is detected, he "dives into the mud," there revels, and is not heard of any more. We believe that during the late war the government was cheated out of millions upon millions. And even since the war, who can tell the amount?

Dispatches from Washington state that the nomination of Gen. Schofield as Secretary of War was taken up in the Senate yesterday in executive session, but its consideration was objected to, and under the rule it went over. It seems to be believed that the nomination will be confirmed at the next meeting of the Senate in executive session. Gen. Schofield would not be obliged to resign his commission, as some seem to suppose, in taking the War Department. He can take leave of absence, and select which salary he will accept, that of General or Secretary of War.

A letter from Mr. J. W. Alvord, superin. tendant of the government schools," was read in the African Methodist Episcopal Conference Zion colored church, sitting in Washington, telling the members "that it migh be of essential service if, in the present critical state of affairs, the convention would, in some formal resolution, express their opinion of Gen Howard and the continuance of the Freedmen's Bureau. It would have great weight with Congress, and perhaps be the means of urging through the bill for continuing the Bureau which now pending before that body.'

The Government has commenced a suit in equity against the Bank of the State of South Carolina, the bank of Charlestou, the Merchants' Bank of S. C., and the arm of Hayne & Son, of Charleston, to recover the sum of $8,797 in gold, which it is alleged is what remained of the funds of the late Confederacy in deposit with defendants at the close of the war. The bill further charges that the money in question has been paid away to some person or persons unknown, and prays for the usual process of discovery.

On the subject of "political discussions," and "dividing time," with Radical speakers, the Richmond Dispatch agrees with the Charlottesville Chronicle and says: - "We are satisfied that every Conservative in the State will, as soon as he sees the evils of the contrary course, come up to the ground we occupied in regard to this question whilst the State Conservative Convention was in session."

The telegraph wires have been burthened, for a day or two, with dispatches from Cincinnati, giving accounts of a contemplated prize fight in Ohio, between two roughs, and the ar- ment of interests. rest of one of them. This must be considered by the telegraph operators as "important Hunnicutt, tells the world that he has left the household, but these were almost enough news!" It is a pity they cannot find something else out of which to make "telegraphic West Virginia. He wants to go to Congress. dispatches!"

The lecture of Mr. Cowardin, of Richmond, that the Conservatives in Virginia will cordion the late Virginia Convention, delivered in Baltimore, was a decided success. His sketches of the colored orators in the late Convention elicited roars of laughter. At the conclusion of the lecture, Mr. C. received a vote of thanks | terday by a street assault by Mr. Joseph Sefrom those present.

CHARLES WHITTLESEY, of this place, has received the nomination for candidate for Coness from this district, by the Radical Convention, which assembled at Culpeper Ct. House yesterday. The vote was-Whittlesey 18; Tucker, 8; scattering 2.

The resignation of Mr. Forney as Secretary of the Senate, was called up in that body, yes terday, but "several Senators objected to its consideration, and it went over."

A dispatch from New York says: The market shows a little more animation in some de partments, but business generally is much less active everywhere than usual at this season. There is a hesitancy on the part of responsible parties to engage in important transactions, in of three to examine in to the alleged attempts eloquent addresses were delivered by Col. Ayanticipation of the future.

The six hundred mile post of the Union Pacific Railroad west from Omahachas been reached, and the track is to day in full working order. With rapidity almost without precedent, and certainly beyond the expectation of the most sanguine, has this road been pushed forward. 30

A resolution was introduced in the Senate yesterday providing for the adjournment of Congress on the 30th of June. A caucus of the Radical members of the House is to be held this evening at which this and other subjects will be considered.

Judge E. K. Snead has prepared a paper setting forth his objections to the proposed "Constitution of Virginia." He sent it to Hunnicutt, who declined to publish it. It will be published in the Richmond Whig.

Congress. In the Senate, yesterday, after the disposal of some routine business, Mr. Davis called up the resolution he had heretofore submitted providing for the appointment of a committee to influence the votes of Senators on impeachment. Mr. Ross made an explanation, in which he said that he at one time intended to vote "guilty" on some of the articles, and that his friends may have drawn an inference that he intended to do so from his conversation, but asserted that he changed his intention for honest and conscientious reasons. He concluded his explanation, by moving a resolution, Samuel C. Redd, who came forward and ac-which was unanimously adopted, providing for cepted the nominations in carnest and approthe appointment of a committee of five to inquire whether improper or corrupt means has been used, or attempted to be used, to influence that Burwell Toler, the colored representative the votes of Senators in the trial of impeachment. LEESBURG, Va.-We call the attention of persons in the cities intending to spend the hot days of summer in the country, to the manifold advantages of Leesburg as a temporary home. It is situated in the midst of a fertile and picturesque country, affording many pleasant drives and much good society. It is 37 miles from Alexandria by the A. L. & H. Railroad, and about the same distance from Washington

After June 1st, there will be two trains daily, one leaving Alexandria about 1 past 8 and reaching Leesburg at 10.45, and returning leaving Leesburg at 12:15, and reaching Alexandria at 2:30; the other train leaves Leesburg at 6 o'clock a. m., and reaches Alexandria at 8, and returning leaves Alexandria at 5 o'clock p. m. reaching Leesburg at early candle light. Thus persons can come to Leesburg after business hours and return the next morning in time to attend even to their duties in the gov ernment offices. There is a stage line daily to more & Ohio R. R., and a tri-weekly line to Winchester, leaving Leesburg upon the arrival of the cars on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, and returning on Wednesdays, Fridays and Mondays in time to meet the cars. There are two good hotels, several excellent boarding houses, and some private families occasionally take boarders during the summer. There are of the Washington, Georgetown and Alexantwo Methodist, one Episcopal and one Presbyterian Church in the town. The schools are numerous and excellent, and present good opportunities for obtaining education on favorable terms.

The town is abundantly watered from a spring about half a mile from the centre of the town, and by numerous pumps affording health giving water.

The places of interest in the neighborhood are Ball's Bluff, about 2 miles distant, and Mt. can take in a panoramic view of nearly all of Maryland.

As a salubrious region this section is unsurpassed in the world, and presents the peculiar advantages above named, together with abun dant supplies of all sorts of fruit, to attract visitors or settlers, for whom the three livery drives. - Loudoun Mirror.

THE FAMOUS OYSTERER IN NEW YORK i described by the correspondent of the Boston Advertiser as follows:

cloths, floor without carpet, white delf warebut all scrupulously clean. Here gentlemen crowd, who at home dine off of porcelain and have silver plate on their tables. Fastidious ladies, who, at home, dwell in palaces and sit in perfumed chambers, on their way home from the opera or the play can be seen taking a stew or a saddlerock fry. Sometimes the crowd is so great that the belles and madames of the upper ten have to stand in a row waiting their turn. In all parts of the world, including China and Japan, Dorlan's fame as an oyster man is known. Mention oysters to an Ameri-can anywhere, and the name of Dorlan comes up. Thirty-one years ago, Dorlan opened his oyster stand on the site of his present establishment. From that time to this he has continued business on the same spot; and near it he was born. He is about the only original Knickerbocker that I have seen in business in New York. He is about fifty years of age, and has the look of a pilot, or one accustomed to the sea. He has made a fortune in his business, but he still serves his customers in person and attends personally to all the details of his trade. With his coat off, sleeves rolled up, and without a hat, in-doors and out, he receives orders, and takes all the money that comes in. His success, as expressed by himself, is based on this: 'I have always been temperate and industrious. I have never served an imperfect article. I have everything cooked in the best style with the best materials. I buy the best of oysters, my butter is sweet, my oils cannot be sur passed in the world. On these three articles I have made my money. I trust nothing to subordinates. I treat every one with courtesy, and demand civility on the part of every one of my employees. Every one knows that I can be trusted and that an order will be faithfully fulfilled. I have money enough, but like my business, and as I must have some employment I shall probably be found here as long as I live?"

Young Napoleon's First Communion .-The Prince Imperial of France received his first communion in the Tuileries Chapel a few days ago. A Paris letter says: It was administered by the Archbishop of Paris, and not, by the Bishop of Adras. The latter prelate only assisted at the ceremony, and said the mass. The chapel was profusely ornamented with flowers and choice herbs for the occasion. Scarcely anybody was present but the Imperial family and the members of the communion, the corners of the cloth were held by Prince Joachim Murat, General Frossard the Prince's tutor, the Bishop of Adras's principal chaplain, and the Abbe Mullois, one of the Emperor's chaplains, Prince Napoleon's leon Victor and Napoleon Louis, had places in the chapel.

How to Make a Town. - We have recently read in an Ohio paper, of the rapid progress of the town of Canton, in that State. It is said that a few years since, this was one of the dullest towns in Ohio, neither increasing in wealth nor population; but retrograding in both. No one thought it worth while to settle there, the place was so dull. 'Finally, one men, a Mr. Ball, having invented an improvemant in mowing machines, proposed that if the citizens of Cauton would loan him ten thousand dollars, to manufacture them at that place, he would immediately erect a factory .-They did it, and that one factory was the nucleus around which the following have gathered : Two immense agricultural implement manufactories, one of paper, and mower knives, one of saddlery hardware, two of furniture, one of cultivators, one of wrought iron bridges, and one of soap, besides a large number of others, more or less extensive. It must not be supposed that those we have enumerated are small concerns, the machine interests alone supporting 2,500 people. The town has trebied in population and quadrupled in wealth."

COURT OF APPEALS .- In this court yesterday, the case of Stevens and others vs. Davison and others, on an appeal from the District Court of Fredericksburg, involving questions of great interest and novelty in this State, is now under argument in this court. The main question involved is understood to be the right dria Railroad Company to make a lease of its road for ten years to the appellants. Many other incidental questions of interest are also involved, but this is the principal one. Messrs. G. W. Brent, of Alexandria, R. T. Daniel, of Richmond, and J. A criminal was being conducted to the place of execution, when he escaped and took refuge in an hospital. As admission could only be enforced in presence of the civil authorities, the building was surrounded until the corregidor (magistrate) could arrive. When that functionary came an entrance was obtained, and a person wearing a dressing gown and a nighteap was seen walking in the yard; an alguazil thought he recognized him as the fugitive, and at once arrested him. The man on being questioned did not reply, but gesticulated with great animation; he was nevertheless hurried away and the sentence of execution carried out without his having uttered a word. It turned out afterward that he was a deaf and dumb inmate of the hospital, and the brother of the real culprit, which last circumstance accounts for the resemblance.

GOING "SHORT" ON A CHURCH PEW.-"Pinto" writes to the Hartford Courant : The propensity among brokers to "take a risk" manifested itself in a queer way recently. A member of Henry Ward Beecher's Church was expressing solicitude lest he should not be able to get a pew for less than one-third more than he paid last year, when a fellow-broker spoke up and said, "I will sell you a pew. What will you give for one?" 'Three hundred and fifty dollars,' was the reply. "Sold" exclaimed the other, with a laugh, in instalments at 6,12 and 18 months respectively, which the lookers on joined. The seller afterwards attended the auction sale of the Ply- er to execute his bonds for the deferred instalmouth Church pews, bid one off for three hundred and twenty-five dollars, and gave the re ceipt to his acquaintance, making twenty-five dollars, by the operation. Selling short on church stock is a rather novel idea, to say the DISTRICT CONVENTION. - Friday, the 5th of June, is the day designated for the meeting of a Congressional district Convention in Alexandria, at which time it is also proposed to nominate a State Senator for this District. Fairfax, Alexandria, and we believe most of the counties interested have already held primary meetings and appointed their delegates. By the day named there will be a morning train on the A. L. & H. Railroad, so that Delegates can go down in the morning, attend the sittings of the Convention, and return in the evening. Let the voters at each precinct in the county therelore, confer together and designate some one te represent them. The more thorough and complete our organization, the more surely will we secure the triumph of Conservative principles throughout the State. For the appointment of delegates from this precinct, we are requested to say that a meeting will be held in Leesburg on Saturday afternoon next. -Loudoun Mirror.

INTERESTING INCIDENT, -Among the distinguished strangers in this city last week were General Robert E. Lee and Rev. Wm. E. Munsey. Neither had ever seen the other, but happening to meet on one of our streets, Mr. Munsey, at once recognizing the General, stopped, stepped off the sidewalk, uncovered his head, and stood motionless until he had passed. General Lee, in recognition, respectfully raised his hat. Not a word was spoken; but the great heart of the cloquent divine was so moved at meeting the grand old hero that the tears welled up to his eyes and ran down his hollow cheeks.
